

On the iDiscover home page, click the small down arrow at the right hand edge of the search bar:

A drop down menu will appear. Scroll down this menu until you find the 'Cambridge Theological Federation', and click on this option.

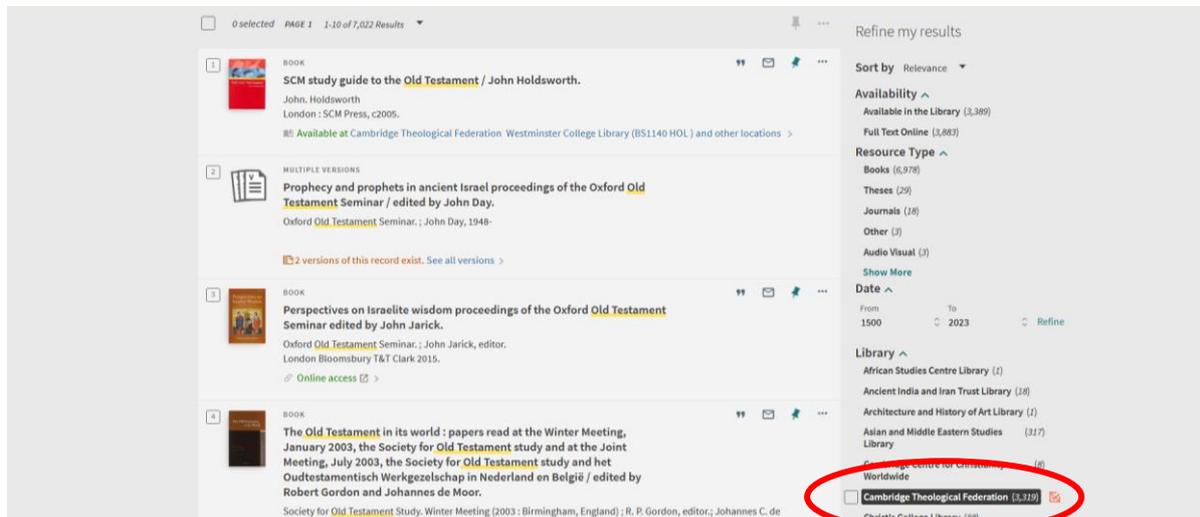

You can then enter your search terms in the search bar as usual, then hit enter, or click the search button. This will ensure that the search results shows you books that are available for you in CTF libraries.

A slight flaw in the system is that searching in this way will also show you online books and digital resources, which unfortunately CTF members do not have access to (as these are for University of Cambridge members only). If you would like to clear them out from your search results, you can add another filter in:

Once you have performed your search, a 'Refine my results' panel will appear on the right hand side of the page. You can use this to sort your search results in a variety of ways, including restricting the date, language, author settings and so on.

To get rid of inaccessible ebook search results, under the 'Library' heading, just click on 'Cambridge Theological Federation'.

iDiscover will now only show you print books available in CTF libraries. Happy reading!
